Crowd Braves High Wind For Dedication

Despite one of the Panhandle's more blustery days, the dedication of the Panhandle Heritage Outdoor Amphitheater in Palo Duro Canyon State Park was attended by more than 800 persons.

Main speaker at the dedication of the Panhandle's only amphitheater was R. B. Johnston, Amarillo educator and noted historian on early Panhandle history.

Johnston spoke to the late afternoon crowd of the history of the Palo Duro Canyon, starting with the prehistoric Indians that inhabited its sheltering depths and leading through Coronado, the first European to see the Panhandle, and finally up to the recent ranchers and the modern day settlers and citizens of the Panhandle.

He spoke of the long dead dinosaurs that once roamed what is now the grassy prairies of the Panhandle and told how they failed to survive because they wouldn't adapt to the climatic changes which over-

Cookie Sale Sets Record

A record of 5,136 boxes of cookies were sold by the Canyon Girl Scouts in their 1963 Cookie Sales Campaign.

Linda Laughery and Leta Cranmer were awarded gold charm bracelets for being the top sales girls in the two divisions.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Laughery, sold 154 boxes to win the honor in the Brownie Scout division.

Winning in the Girl Scout division with a total of 112 boxes was Leta Cranmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Cranmer.

Mrs. Dean Nicholas, chairman for the cookie sales campaign, attributed the record sale to the merchants of Canyon who purchased cookies by the case and the people who bought them by the box from the girls.

The annual cookie sale is the only fund raising project of the Canyon Girl Scouts. The Canyon Troop receives the balance of proceeds after paying expenses at the bakery company.

Effect Of Road On City Growth Eyed

A special meeting of Canyon city commission was in prospect this week for consideration of annexing Ponderosa Addition south of town.

The commission Monday night at a regular meeting delayed action on the final reading of annexation proceedings.

City Manager Bill York Wednesday said a special meeting would probably be called as soon as Commissioner John Williams returns from a trip. He was expected home some time this week.

Annexation of Ponderosa is caught on a legal snag. The old sewer plant road on the north side of Ponderosa is involved in litigation.

Several property owners, chief among them Hosea Foster, Buddy and Jack Taylor, have filed for an injunction designed to keep the old road open.

City Attorney A. W. Lair advised the city against annexation until after the litigation is settled. Some city officials have expressed concern that leaving the old road open would disturb the orderly development of the city southward.

The road is about a half block south of Thirteenth Avenue. Its north extremity is an alley within the city limits. Most of the road itself lies outside the city.

City officials say that even if the road remains open, the alley also stays.

Named defendant in the suit was Roy Cline, Amarillo, developer of Ponderosa.

Speaking for the developer at Monday night's meeting of the city commission, Ben Monning Jr., Amarillo attorney, urged immediate annexation, which would have been possible at that meeting. The annexation ordinance already has been passed on one reading.

Monning said the city would not be adversely affected by legal action brought against the developer even if the addition is annexed. He said Cline would continue to bear the brunt of litigation.

Monning further declared that the city could close the road legally after annexation.

"The city has a right to vacate streets and alleys if for a public purpose," he told the commissioners.

Monning conceded that property owners in the vicinity of the road have expressed concern over drainage problems which might arise. R. H. Base, Tulsa contractor who plans to construct houses in the addition, said drainage difficulties are not expected.

Monning said his client will fight through the appellate courts for a 16 foot alley rather than an open road.

"If there's 60 feet open through there it will be only after the high court says so," Monning declared.

Monning said efforts are being made to settle the matter.

Music Man Opening Set Next Wednesday

Four performances of "The Music Man," which opens May 1 for an eight-performance run in the Branding Iron Theatre at West Texas State University, have already been sold out, according to box office secretaries.

"We still have a large number of tickets for the opening show, and quite a number for May 2, May 8, and May 9," according to Dr. Crannell Tolliver, head of the speech department. "Reservations can be made by telephone, but the tickets must be picked up and paid for at least 24 hours before the show."

Tickets cost $2 for adults, and $1.50 for public school students and children. WT students are admitted on activity tickets.

Directed by Royal Brantley, "The Music Man" will feature Bob Finnigan of Erie, Ill., as Harold Hill. "The Music Man" He played the lead role two years ago in "Guys and Dolls," and had a major role in last year's production of "Showboat."

Cast as Marian Paroo, the librarian, is Lanelle Blanton, Dimmitt junior, who won acting and singing honors last year for her role in "Showboat." Another Dimmitt student, Gary Wyatt, will play the non-singing role of Mayor Shinn. A senior, Wyatt appeared in the BIT's most recent production, "Pygmalion," and has starred in a wide variety of productions during his four years at WT.

"The Music Man" marks the tenth year that Brantley has directed the Musical and Opera Workshop at WT. Until 1960, after the Fine Arts Building was completed, only small operas were presented, including such shows as "Singing Billy" and "Gianni Schicchi." In 1958, "Girl Crazy" was presented, but it was the only musical attempted until new stage facilities were completed.

The first highly successful production directed and produced by Brantley was "The King and I" in 1960, followed by "Guys and Dolls" and "Showboat." (See MUSIC, Page 3)

Fraternity Working On Clean-Up

The annual spring "Clean up-Paint up-Fix up" week is being sponsored by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce May 1-4.

Members of Kappa Alpha Order will be available for jobs during the annual campaign. They will supply a flat-bed truck to remove trash, trees and other debris from your yards and alleys for $1.

Call OLS-4644 for this service by the fraternity or you may be contacted at your home during the clean up days.

The group will work the town in sections covering the northwest section of town on the 1st of May. The area south of fourth avenue and west of the highway will be taken care of during the 2nd and 3rd of May.

Homes east of 23rd Street will be taken care of on May 4.

This picture of the Heritage Foundation amphitheater, about one-third full, was taken just before dedication ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

Shown on the stage in the foreground is the Amarillo Air Force Base Band.

Rehiring Question Left Open By Superintendent

The question remained open at mid-week as to whether Superintendent Joe A. Gibson would remain on as head of the Canyon school system if asked to do so.

The question was raised Tuesday morning by a story in The Amarillo Daily News.

Without quoting sources, the story said a petition was being circulated to retain Gibson.

"I know nothing of it," Gibson said concerning the petition. He said his first knowledge of the story was when J. O. Parker, president of the board of education, dropped by his office Tuesday morning.

On a direct question Gibson was asked whether he would consider remaining as school superintendent if the position were offered. A yes or no answer was requested. Gibson declined to make such an answer.

Gibson was likewise noncommittal on the question as to whether he would consider a position as business manager of the school. Gibson said he didn't see how such a move could be contemplated by the board.

However, he declined again to give a definite answer. Gibson reiterated that he knows nothing of the existence of a petition.

The superintendent agreed to call The Canyon News if he were to have any further statements.

Delegation Presses For Road Extension

Randall County commissioners court Monday authorized a jury of view to study the need for an extension of City Lake Road 4 miles north to intersect with Hollywood Road.

Several interested persons including E. L. Plank, Walter Graham, A. C. Evers, Tom Black and Roland Black, appeared before the court in favor of the road.

Plank and Evers represented adjacent property holders. Tom Black is a Canyon businessman and Roland Black is manager of Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

Graham appeared as a member of Canyon school board. He told the court that the proposed road would save 160 to 175 school bus miles a month. "I've lived in this county 35 years and I didn't know there was a place in the county that needed a road so bad," Graham declared.

Commissioner Bill Butler commented that 7,200 people used the Baptist camp ground in the area last year. If the road is constructed it would give better access to the camp ground.

Commissioners court awarded bids for 16,000 poll tax receipts and 3,500 exemptions to Steck Company of Austin at $266.57.

Bids for 2500 tax receipts and other tax office supplies went to Bennett Company of Dallas for $1147.25. Bid for 4000 applications for poll tax and 1,000 applications for exemption also went to Bennett of Dallas for $24.55.

Commissioners purchased a new Chevrolet Biscayne from Plains Chevrolet for $1572.40 and a 1959 Chevrolet. The new car is for use by Randall County sheriff's department and is a police special.

The county dedicated half of an alley at the county barn in southwest Canyon. Commissioners arranged sale of 1958 warrants for payment of $4701.80 to Stanley Blackburn for right-of-way on Loop 335.

Patriotism Stressed By School Here

"Americanism Week" will be observed at Canyon High School assemblies and at other activities next week, according to an announcement made by James E. Miller, principal.

"America the Beautiful" a program of colored pictures accompanied by patriotic music will be given by Don Hughes of Amarillo Monday at 10:15 a.m.

The music and speech departments will present a program Friday, May 3 at 1:15 p.m. The public is invited to attend both assemblies.

The second annual observance is being sponsored by the National Honor Society and other student organizations.

The students and staff members of Canyon High School encourage all citizens of Canyon to participate in the activities.

A flag-raising ceremony will be held at the school each morning at 8:30 a.m., weather permitting. Daily radio programs will be broadcast on KCAN radio at 12:35 p.m. each day. Special classroom activities will be held throughout the week's observance.

Airmail Here 50 Years Late

Windy day?

Mrs. J. T. Stipe couldn't believe it when she found a Christmas postcard in her yard last week. The post card was dated in 1913.

To Hire Second Fireman

Canyon will employ another full time fireman.

Canyon city commission Monday night authorized City Manager Bill York to employ another man to work with Fire Captain Joe Rice.

York told the commission that another man is needed. He pointed out that a second employee would give the fire department a man on duty around the clock.

He noted that in many instances that with a second man on duty it will not be necessary to disturb volunteer firemen for a small fire.

He said a second fireman will be able to help Rice with many jobs which in the past have required assigning personnel from another city department.

The fire department must install two-way radio equipment independent of police radio by October. This facility, however, will be operated by a dispatcher at the sheriff's (See TO, Page 3)

Price Is Top Student At Canyon High

Davis Price and Marguerite Stephens, both senior students at Canyon High School, are the top honor students of the graduating class this year.

With a four year scholastic average of 96.97 Davis is the class valedictorian. Maggie had an average of 95.95 and will be the salutatorian.

Davis plans to major in pre-med and will probably attend West Texas State University after graduation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Borden Price and has three younger sisters. An active student, Davis served as senior class president this year. Other activities included football and basketball, a member of the National Honor Society, Foreign Language Club and president of the Science Club at the high school.

Miss Stephens plans to attend West Texas State University as an English major. She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Stephens and has a brother in the Air Force.

Maggie has been a cheerleader at Canyon High School for two years. She is a member of the Foreign Language Club, the National Honor Society, Future Teachers of America and the Thespians Club.

Babe Ruth Officials Are Needed

Volunteer umpires and score keepers are needed by the Babe Ruth Baseball League.

The League includes seven teams after adding one team from Canyon and one from Umlinger this year. The season starts Friday, May 3, and will be held until the middle of July.

Interested volunteers for the jobs of umpires and score keepers may contact George deSchweinitz, OLS-2572; Jack Downing, OLS-3010; or Dudley Moore, Jr., OL 5-2104.

Davis Price and Maggie Stephens are the senior honor students at Canyon High School this year. Davis is the graduating valedictorian with a 96.97 average and Maggie is the salutatorian with a 95.95 average.

Coaches Sign Top Cage Talent For West Texas

Coaches Jimmy Viramontes and Ray Musgraves have already acquired some of the top basketball prospects in the nation for the 1963-64 West Texas State freshman and varsity squads.

Two of these boys are 6-8 or better and have the weight to be effective under the backboards. Two junior college transfers have been acquired including 6-4 1/2 Kirby Pugh, star forward of the nation's number one junior college team -- the San Angelo Jr. College Wildcats.

Pugh weighs 215 and will be hard to move out from under the baskets. He was the top scorer and the top rebounder in the state last year and was selected the most valuable player on San Angelo's team.

He hails from Abilene and will have two years of eligibility at West Texas State. The other junior college transfer is towering 6-8 Max Courtney from Clarendon Jr. College. Courtney was the top rebounder and scorer for Clarendon's team last season and is from Wellington.

The premier player thus far, however, is thought to be Mel

Daniels from Detroit, Mich. Daniels stands a tall 6-8 and three-fourths barefooted and weighs about 225 pounds.

Among Daniels' accomplishments are being named to Detroit's All-City team with competition coming from 26 high schools each having 3000 students or better, being named to the Michigan All-State team, and being honored with honorable mention as high school All-American.

WT Golfers Tip Aggies

Coach Huelyn Laycock's West Texas State golf team won its second match of the season against seven losses in downing Panhandle A&M last Saturday at Guymon, Oklahoma.

The Buff linksmen triumphed 9-4 with Jimmy Holmes and Gary Stanfield turning in the top performances for WT with identical scores of 78 on the wind-blown par-72 course.

The medalist, however, was A&M's Gary Wilcox who shot a four-over-par 76. Other individual performances for West Texas included Bob Condren's 79, Monty Sherrod's 82, and Jimmy Hodo's 85.

Presently, the Buff golfers are engaged in the Abilene Intercollegiate Tournament which lasts Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Also competing in the 72-hole meet are North Texas State, Hardin-Simmons University, Texas Wesleyan, East Texas State, Odessa College, Southwest Texas State, Arlington State, Texas Western, Abilene Christian College, Tarleton State, and McMurry. Eastern and Texas Western are expected to provide most of the competition.

After the weekend tournament, the Buff linksmen travel to Portales for a dual match against Eastern New Mexico University next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDowell and family spent the holiday visiting Mrs. Roy Kelly in Hamlin. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carlton in Stanford, and Mrs. Essie McDowell in Aspermont.

Daniels was top scorer and rebounder for his high school, Pershing H. S., which was the state runners-up last season. He is only 18 years old and is still growing!

One of the more outstanding facts concerning Daniels is that he received over 50 scholarship offers before he signed with Viramontes and West Texas -- a long way from home.

One of the main reasons Daniels came to West Texas was the presence of Marvin Mitchell and Dickey Dickerson, both of Detroit. Mitchell played on the frosh squad at the beginning of the season and he brought Dickerson in at the semester break. According to Dickerson, several pro teams have been eyeing Daniels along with the Harlem Globe-Trotters.

"Daniels is one of the few real great freshman basketball prospects in the country," says Viramontes. "He averaged 19 points in high school in addition to 18 rebounds and 17 blocked shots defensively! Daniels has exceptional spring in his legs and lacks about four inches touching the top of the backboard -- over two feet above the basket itself."

"He has better than average speed," added Viramontes. "We feel that this could be our answer to basketball as Pete Pedro was to football. He'll be joining the varsity a year from now (after his internship on the freshman team)."

The other freshman to sign with West Texas is a Texas round-ball performer from Midland Carver. He is 6-4 Sheffield Whaley. He was all-state last season and was the top scorer on the 2AA state championship team he played for.

The two basketball coaches are in the process of scouting out and signing more new prospects to build West Texas State's basketball program back to its caliber of the 1940 era. Viramontes stated that he should have more signed by this weekend.

Haimes Fets WT Athletes

A "Hamburger Supper and Swimming Party" was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Haimes at their home in Amarillo Sunday honoring athletes and coaches at West Texas State University.

About 100 persons attended. The Haimes are making plans for a party for the basketball players, members of the rifle team and other athletes to be held in the near future.

Players Are Honored At WT Sports Banquet

Scottie Pierce, Jerry Don Logan, and Bob Petrich were the award-winning West Texas State athletes at the annual athletic banquet Tuesday night in the university's cafeteria. Pierce was a double winner in that he won the Wes Kleinschmidt basketball award and the Fighting Heart basketball award while Logan was the recipient of the Kleinschmidt football award and Petrich was presented the President's Award by WT president James P. Cornette.

Serving as master of ceremonies for the banquet was Bob "Pappy" Watson of radio and television fame in this area. The invited guests of the annual function were the athletic committee, the student council, and the press, radio, and television publicity personnel.

Wes Kleinschmidt, a local jeweler and long-time supporter of all Buffalo teams, presented the outstanding player awards in football and basketball while William B. Davis of the Canyon Rotary Club presented the Fighting Heart award.

Honored guests were the football, basketball, golf, track, and rifle team competitors who were all introduced by their respective coaches. Short speeches were given by coaches Jimmy Viramontes and Joe Kerbel, head basketball and football coaches respectively before Cal Farley introduced the speaker for the evening.

The guests were led to believe all evening that the featured speaker had been detained at the airport and was late arriving. A spectator in the crowd was called to the microphone after much persuasion, and stumbled his way up to the podium.

After all was said and done, he turned out to be the speaker -- none other than the Tulsa performer Cecil Hunter, better known as "Stuttering Sam." He kept the larger audience in tears throughout his continual line of jokes and routines.

Hunter got his professional start from Cal Farley on local radio some 30 years ago.

Entertainment for the banquet was furnished completely by West Texas State students. The Pro Marks were scheduled to play dinner music but all of them save leader Lynn McClarty attended a compulsory "Music Man" rehearsal.

McClarty also played piano while Mula Beth VanDexter sang selected songs. A quartet of athletes called the "Upsetters" composed of soloist Pete Pedro, accompanist David Shearrod, and singers Russ Mundy and Joe Blocker drew a fine hand from the crowd after they sang three numbers.

Bufs Weak At Tackle Coach Rector Asserts

By MIKE MOON
"The weakest position on the entire West Texas State football team is at tackle," according to tackle coach Joe Rector.

Although there are 13 candidates for the starting tackle berths, there is a lot of inexperience. The tackle slot was hardest hit by the graduating senior list with four of the seven department members of the 1962 Sun Bowl being tackles.

Bob Petrich, senior tackle, has already been drafted by the San Diego Chargers of the American Pro Football League. Other losses were starter Jim Cunningham, and reservists Dory Funk Jr. and Dick Lowery. Rector's lamentations concerning the current strength of the tackle position were lightened by the hope of improvement with the aid of a good fall practice by several of the members. Rector added that in his estimation, there are only two or three tackles capable of playing winning ball at the present time. The remainder can be improved.

JOHN VARNELL: Varnell is a 6-4, 262 pounder who is supposed to come down to 245 playing weight by next season. He hails from Plainview where he was bothered by a knee injury.

Dory Funk Junior Making Big Name In Wrestling

By MIKE MOON
A former West Texas State football player is setting the world of professional wrestling afire by streaking to the world's championship title in a series of ten straight wins.

This is none other than former tackle for the 1962 West Texas Sun Bowl champions, Dory Funk Jr. Funk is the son of the famed Dory Funk Sr. -- an old-time winner of the pro mat cards who is still going strong.

Funk signed his pro grappling contract almost immediately after the Sun Bowl game in which he helped the Buffs to a 15-14 win over Ohio University.

Since then, Dory, who is still attending class as a senior at WT, has practically stood untouched in the ring in grappling his way straight to a claim to the world title.

The undisputed title itself is held by one of the all-time greats in the world of pro wrestling -- the great Lou Thesz. A match between Thesz and Funk was to have followed the local 16-man tournament held at Amarillo but Thesz postponed the match until he could get in better shape for Funk.

Thesz has held the undisputed world heavy-weight title for a large number of years -- so many that the exact number is actually unknown. Thesz has established the biggest name in the mat circles ever known.

Funk has swept his way to 11 straight wins since January of 1963 and, in his most recent bout, was to have met Iron Mike Dibiasi last night at the Amarillo Sports Arena.

Dory beat Killer Karl Kox for his 11th straight win but had a referee to contend with in the meanwhile. Coincidentally, the referee was Iron Mike who was Killer Karl's choice since the real referee was thoroughly worked over in the preceding event by Tokyo Joe and John Romanoff.

Funk picked Wahoo McDaniel to referee and Knox picked Iron Mike who came in for the first fall. Iron Mike didn't like the way Funk broke at the bell so he slugged Dory almost knocking him out. Ricky Romero revived Funk by jumping in and out of the ring.

Dory went ahead and won the first fall and then McDaniel came in for the second fall to referee. As Funk came into the ring, he was slugged by Kox. However, Funk bounced right back and pinned Knox in 50 seconds with a spinning toe hold to win the match.

Funk's win over Kox was his second title defense in as many weeks as he prepares to meet Thesz. His first defense was against Giant Gene Kiniski who fell readily after being a slight favorite over the young Funk.

Funk's big break came almost a month ago when he won the 16-man tournament. A tremendous match almost developed in the semi-finals of the tournament when Funk Jr. had worked his way up to the next-to-last round to meet his father -- Dory Funk Sr.

However, Funk Sr. withdrew from the tournament allowing his son to advance to the finals which Junior won.

Funk Jr. has been meeting and beating opponents weighing 300 pounds or better with most of them having experience of five or ten years in the mat circles. Within the next few weeks, the young undefeated Dory Funk Jr. will meet the awesome oldtimer in World Champion Lou Thesz. Perhaps the old champ has seen his days -- the fast-becoming-famous WT star will soon know!

Reactor commented that he looked good while he was working out. He also is a transfer from San Bernardino Junior College and he hails from Barstow, Calif.

GEORGE ALLEN: Allen is the giant of the team. He towers above everyone else as he is tall 6-8 and weighs 240. He is only 19 years old and will be playing as a sophomore next season. Rector had this to say of Allen, "Undoubtedly, George has good size and potential to be a great tackle; with some game experience and a lot more practice time, he will be a fine tackle for West Texas." He is from Longview.

JIM PARTRIDGE: He is a 6-2, 225 pound player and will be a sophomore next year. Partridge hails from Carroll High School of Corpus Christi. He improved right along with the rest of them and lacks experience as yet, although he has fine movement and is a real tough ball player.

LEONARD MILLER: A local boy is 6-1, 220, Miller, said to have shown a great deal of promise at the end of spring training. Once he learns what is going on, he could play a lot better football and push somebody for a position. He is a Canyon sophomore.

BOBBY WALTON: Walton is a junior college transfer from Compton Junior College of California. He is a shift 5-10 and a stocky 245 pounds. Walton is said to be a real steady football player who has an excellent attitude toward the game, was very impressive in spring training. Bobby moves well and will gain experience to be a real fine tackle. His hometown is Littlefield.

JERRY MCGILL: Murray State of Oklahoma is where McGill played his junior college ball. McGill is from Murieta, Okla., and is 20 years old. He is a very diligent worker and tries very hard to improve on the mistakes he makes. With a little added weight and strength he will develop into a good tackle -- he has good speed as a tackle.

JOHN BUENS: Burns made the transition from guard to tackle in spring training but received an ankle injury during the training and didn't get much experience at tackle. However,

York told the commission that it now appears that five or six blocks of paving will be done this year. About 70 blocks of seal coating is in prospect.

The city commission authorized York to advertise for bids for a new sewer rodder which will cost in the vicinity of $3500. This machine will clear up much of the sewer trouble in the older sections of town where much difficulty is encountered because of tree roots.

The commission discussed revision of charges for trash collection in the business area. Also, with advent of Dempster Dumpster facilities it will be necessary to collapse cardboard boxes before disposing of them.

The commission is giving some thought to passage of an ordinance against burning of trash.

York told the commission that a traffic survey of Fourth Avenue failed to justify traffic lights at 24th and 25th Streets. The survey was made by state highway officials March 26.

York was authorized to buy two new typewriters.

Commissioners discussed the advisability of hiring a taxman who also would serve as city judge.

took the Panhandle in the far prehistory of the region.

He said the young people of the Panhandle should take notice of the way these animals died out because of their failure to adapt. He pointed out that the people should study their lives and the world around them to be ready to adapt to its changes.

Invocation for the dedication was given to the crowd by Dr. J. A. Hill, president emeritus of West Texas State University. Master of ceremonies for the occasion was Clint Formby of Radio Station KPAN of Hereford. Formby introduced Johnston to the gathering.

Houston Bright, a member of the West Texas State University music department, directed the A Capella Choir which performed four numbers for the crowd's entertainment.

Formby introduced Mrs. Ples Harper, president of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation and guiding star of the amphitheater project to the gathering.

Mrs. Harper introduced Mrs. John Merchant of Amarillo as representative of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs from Amarillo.

She was followed by Lee Bivins, chairman of the fine arts committee of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Harper emphasized that the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, especially the fine arts committee of the chamber, had been mainly responsible for the Panhandle wide county historical plaque contest, the winners of which were on hand to show their winning drawings to the crowd. The drawings will be reproduced in stone relief and placed at the rear of the amphitheater.

The dedication was closed out with the display of the winning drawings of each county displayed by the school student who drew it.

Mrs. Harper said after the dedication that the unusual wind had seriously hampered hearing the guest speakers at the dedication, but special sound systems, including microphones which will work in windy areas would be installed in the amphitheater for the historical dramas that are to be presented there.

She said seats and risers would also be placed in the amphitheater at a later date to make the seating more comfortable.

Pioneers Trusted Each Other Says Mrs. Cash

Mrs. Harvey Cash, 80 years old and with a mind like a sharp tack, is one of the true pioneers of the Great Plains and Canyon. She is quite a Texan.

Mrs. Cash, the great granddaughter of Josiah H. Bell, once the governor of Austin's colony while Stephen F. Austin was held prisoner in Old Mexico in 1820 and granddaughter of Judge James H. Bell, a Texas State Supreme Court judge in the mid-1800's, has a long family history in the Lone Star State.

Born in the Bell family house near Round Rock, Texas in 1883, Mrs. Cash is the daughter of Barclay Townsend Bell, the oldest son of Judge James Bell.

Mrs. Cash said grandfather Bell moved from Brazoria County in far East Texas to the then new town of Austin, now the state capital. She says a life size picture of her grandfather still hangs in the Supreme Court Room of the Texas State Capitol in Austin.

A farmer and rancher in the Round Rock area of the late 1800's, Mrs. Cash's father moved to the Panhandle of Texas in 1893, leaving her and the rest of the family behind to attend school while he became settled in the new country to the north.

Barclay Bell settled on the old OYO sheep ranch in Castro County five miles north of Dimmitt. He was foreman.

Mrs. Cash, as a girl of 17, left Round Rock in 1897 to join her father on the prairie. He had just bought a 16 section ranch 2 1/2 miles east of Dimmitt near what today is the town of Nazareth.

She said the open lands of the prairie were what brought the family to the Panhandle. She said it was a long time after they got here that the railroad came into the country.

"There were no doctors and no nurses. My mother was one of the accepted nurses in the county until she became sick and I had to take over her duties caring for the sick cowboys. I nursed for 20 years while we lived in Dimmitt."

"That to me is one of the most interesting parts of the history of this country. The way the people depended upon each other was amazing."

"It was a very hard life with many of the people denied many things."

"We were happy people. The people were neighborly although they lived far apart. We had a social life—a religious life. We were very happy people."

"As a fringe county on the frontier, we were dependent on each other for everything. We cared for and buried our own people, the men making coffins themselves. It was too far away from everyone else to do anything else."

"Many people lived in dugouts. The men would take the wagon and team and leave the wife and children out on the bald prairie while they went for supplies. It would take days to get them and come back."

"We had many interesting stories about the social life that came out of those days," Mrs. Cash said.

"Oh, we had parties and singing schools. The old people and the very young children rode the wagons."

Mrs. Cash told of the singing school they had at Dimmitt. "One night after the singing school we planned a chicken fry out on the prairie. Boys went to their own mother's hen roosts and got the chickens that we were going to have at the chicken fry."

"Young people started riding across the prairie about 3 o'clock that afternoon to come to the chicken fry. Many of them had to ride 20 or 30 miles to get there. After the fry was over we had square dancing on the prairie in the moonlight."

Describing the life on the prairie as a young girl, Mrs. Cash said, "When I was a little girl of 17, with a girl friend, they wanted to take a scholastic survey of the county. They offered the job to us."

"Our brothers provided the team and buggy and we went all over the county. The homes were few and far between and the survey was to take nearly two weeks. We had to spend the night out where it found us."

"Most people lived in sod dugouts and had large families. Where they stowed us, I'll never know. It is amazing that two young girls could travel the open prairie alone, spending the night out where it found them with strangers."

"The people treated us like queens and we completed the survey in about two weeks. People in those days trusted each other."

"They paid us each five dollars a week for our services. We took the money and spent it on two pale blue Sears & Roebuck hats and they faded."

"You might think there was a scarcity of food but there wasn't when we wanted a big supper everyone brought something from home. There was plenty to eat."

"Turkeys, chickens, hogs and beef furnished the meats and all of our mothers raised big vegetable gardens to put up the food. I just mentioned that to show how ingenious the people were," she said.

"Pioneer people were practically on a level in social standing. Some were better educated than others."

"Pioneer people were the ones who stayed. The people who had it in them to make a go of it stayed and the rest left."

"Those that made it had the same level of culture and morals. Papa had a college education and Mama brought her things with her from Round Rock to help bring a little culture to the prairie. She brought her silver and china with her."

Mrs. Cash met her husband Harvey while she was a school teacher in a little town south of Dimmitt.

"When I was 17 I took the state examination for teaching. There was a small community south of Dimmitt called Shive. It was a Presbyterian community."

"I was given that school to teach for three years, summer and winter until I was married. They had us teach school in the summer to make good use of the warm summer weather."

"My husband, Harvey, was the finest man that ever lived," she said. "He courted me all the time I was teaching at Shive."

"He came to this country from Houston for his health. He had developed malaria down there. His uncle, who was his mother's brother, Harry Baughn, was the foreman of the XIT Ranch."

"Mr. Baughn asked Harvey to come to the Panhandle when he was just 19 years old to work on the XIT."

"Sick as he was from the malaria, the cowboys said he was walking around to save funeral expenses. He regained his health working on the ranch."

"He had a good business education so the XIT cowboys elected him to county and district clerk to represent them in their disputes with the nesters and sheepherders. The nesters and the ranchers fought each other all the time in those days—especially the sheepherders."

"After Harvey was elected to the job, I was teaching at Shive at the time we courted and married and bought a house at Dimmitt. I was his deputy clerk for six years."

Harvey was a good husband and we had five children—we lost our second daughter in 1932—our oldest daughter is a counselor at Texas Tech College, another daughter lives in Shamrock and our baby daughter is Rosa Cowart, Pete Cowart's wife, here in Canyon," she said. "Our oldest boy is the son or vice-president of the Texas Company—Texaco."

"We moved to Canyon in 1920 to put the oldest girl through school. Our four daughters graduated from West Texas State College and our oldest boy graduated from Texas A&M College."

"Any way in the world we could make an honest dollar to keep the children in school, we did it. Mr. Cash passed on in 1946," she finished.

Buff Home Schedule Set For '64

The 1964 West Texas State home schedule has been announced with the season-opening game against Ohio University -- the team that fell 15-14 to the Buffaloes in the 1962 Sun Bowl.

Ohio sets foot on Buffalo Bowl soil for a 7:30 p.m. game September 19 against the Buffs. The Bobcats start a season into swing that will again feature six home games. Frank Kimbrough, athletic director, urges that all Buff fans get their season ticket applications in early to assure good seats.

The week after Ohio, tough Arizona State University invades Canyon for the first time in three seasons. A rebuilding football school in Texas Western comes next on the tough West Texas slate October 3.

The next weekend, the Buffs are out of town playing an undetermined opponent only to return home Oct. 17 to play rough Memphis State University. Off-surprising Trinity University plays at Buffalo Bowl Oct. 24 and the Tigers are followed by another newcomer to the Buff schedule -- San Jose State of California.

The remainder of the schedule will be played out of town in the month of November.

Mrs. Mae Johnson attended the Grand Lodge meeting in Houston last week.

She served as a delegate from the Rebecca Lodge in Canyon.

Tuek Leads Bowling Win Over ENMU

Norman Tuek led the West Texas State bowling team to a razor-thin win over Eastern New Mexico University last Saturday afternoon at the Canyon Bowl, 2685-2676.

Tuek had the high series for both teams with an even 600. His games were 222, 198, 180. Tuek rolled the last ball in the three-game match and a strike was needed by him for the narrow win. Tuek knew he had to come through and did by doubling the 10th frame for the victory.

High game, however, was turned in by Eastern's Bill Bert who rolled a 237. Other scores by West Texas keglers were Jack Brinkley's 189, 195, and 178; Harry Hiduk's 177, 151, and 183; Ronnie Mullins' 176, 150, and 148; and James Milhoan's 185, 171, and 182.

The Buff bowlers took the first game by a good margin, winning 949-924 and then edged to a win in the second 865-857. Eastern's keglers made a good but short come-back attempt in the third and final game and won it 895-871 but still lost the match thanks to Tuek's last frame accuracy.

A return match with Eastern at Portales is to be scheduled within the next three weeks meanwhile Eddie Knowles of Canyon Bowl is still trying to schedule Texas Tech.

Tour Supervisor Says Canyon Museum Is Tops

BY JIM THOMAS

Panhandle Plains Museum was visited Monday by Henry Barnbrock of Redondo Beach, California, and a group of nine visitors from California as a part of the bi-annual nation wide tour Barnbrock conducts.

Traveling in an air-conditioned Cadillac sunvisor limousine, the group left Southern California in March and having traveled through much of the United States will return to California about April 27.

Barnbrock, as leader of dozens of cross-continent tours from California, said he always makes it a point to stop in Canyon and show his guests the Panhandle Plains Museum.

"I've been in a great many museums over the country and I vote this one just about tops for carrying out a specific idea, that of telling the story of the Great Plains," he said.

Indians Offer Relics Swap For Chief's Bones

The Kiowa Indians of Oklahoma have offered to swap off to the Panhandle Plains Museum in Canyon some of their most precious relics, not including the Ten Grandmother Gods, for the bones of the great Set-tainte or White Bear, popularly known as Santana, according to Frank X. Tolbert in his column, Tolbert's Texas in the Dallas News.

Set-tainte, called the "Orator of the Plains," was the southern horse Indian's most gifted advocate in councils with white men, according to Tolbert. Set-tainte was also a "brave, cunning, savage warrior. Unfortunately White Bear was the Indian most hated and feared by such generals as Phillip Sheridan, William Tecumseh Sherman, and George Custer. They wanted to hang him. And they saw to it that he was imprisoned...in the state penitentiary at Huntsville..."

"...White Bear killed himself by diving from a second story window into a brick court yard. He is buried among the pines at the prison cemetery at Huntsville," writes Tolbert.

The column goes on to say that James Auchiah of Carnegie, Oklahoma, a grandson of the Orator of the Plains had asked Boone McClure, curator

Fulfillment Found In Creative Hobby Class

BY JIM THOMAS

Students in the creative hobby class, under the supervision of Dr. Emilio Caballero, head of the West Texas State University Fine Arts Department, are experiencing the pride of craftsmanship and accomplishment.

With brass and bronze, with wire, scraps of wood and cloth, the students of Dr. Caballero's class are combining creative-ness with improvisation and are coming up with personal works of art that are worthy of the name and which leave the students with a personal sense of accomplishment.

Pieces of odd shaped woods, scraps of cloth and clay are the makings of the art objects made by the students, each of whom comes from a varied background or field of study at the university. Few of the students in the class are art majors.

Under the watchful eye and with the helpful advice of Dr. Caballero, the students are urged to use their imagination in a creative way, using only the simplest of tools and materials to construct their objects of art.

The students' job is to improvise something creative from next-to-nothing in the way of materials and tools.

Some students are elementary education majors at the university. Some are housewives and mothers. Others are students in the science or mathematics fields.

Two recent students in the creative hobby classes were Pete Pedro and Ollie Ross, football players with the West Texas State University football team.

Pointing out that the classes are purely to acquaint the students with the ways art can be used as a hobby, Dr. Caballero says, "You know this is probably the only time these students will take part in the creative arts before they go on to other things."

"It is a strange thing about art. Once these people begin to delve into creating art objects through improvisation, they obtain an experience that will remain with them the rest of their lives."

"These students know they may not use what they learn here in the near future—but perhaps they feel they will gain from the experience at a later day," he said.

Dr. Caballero said he thinks creativity can be taught, "or at least motivated in that direction."

"Have you ever taken an old piece of wood you found somewhere, and begun to carve on it with a knife, cutting and gauging it until you've done something with it?" he said.

"You've created something that you know makes you a more sensitive person, a finer person in your own little way," he said.

Some of the students in the creative hobby class are creating woodcarvings, doing copper enameling, clay modeling, jewelry design, tile work and even rug paintings.

Dr. Caballero, in explaining why persons of such varied backgrounds take his creative hobby course says, "The course gives the students a sense of creativity and personal confidence, a value that is most important to them."

The creativity course is offered twice during the winter session on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 to 12 a. m. or from 1 to 3 p. m. It is also offered once during the summer session during similar hours.

Dr. Caballero said he has been teaching the course since 1949 when the class had four or five students a semester. "Now we have from 60 to 65 students in the course each semester," he said.

He said he organizes the course by presenting the class with a series of projects designed to acquaint the students with the various art mediums that can be used in hobbies.

Dr. Caballero starts the project with a short lecture on the ways art objects can be made with a particular art technique. Following a demonstration of the technique, he assigns the students materials and requires them to start on an art project using the art technique under study.

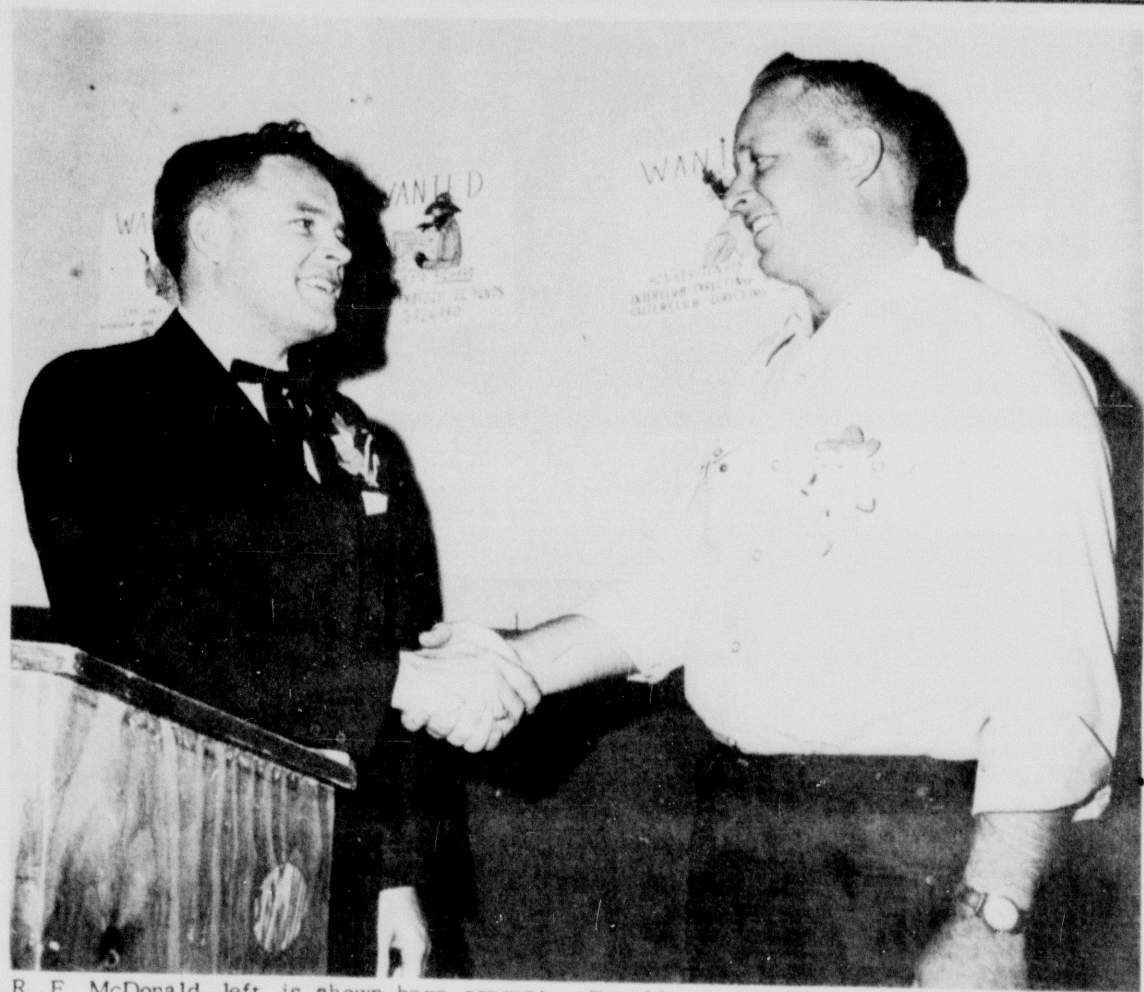

He requires they work separately and use originality. "The only requirement on the projects is that they do their own thinking, no copying. They must create it, they must improvise," he says.

"I work with each student individually helping each student as I make my rounds of the room. Each student must think for himself," he said.

Mrs. Josephine South of Snyder visited with the Bobby Rivers family last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Partridge visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clary in Lubbock recently. They were in Lubbock to visit the Clary's son, Tommy, who was in the hospital.

Enroute home the Partridge family stopped in Plainview to visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Odum.

A Proclamation

Whereas, the Congress of the United States did in 1958 designate May 1st of each year as National Loyalty Day and,

Whereas, for the past twelve years the Veterans of Foreign Wars have sponsored patriotic observances designed to make May 1st a "Loyalty Day" for every American and,

Whereas, Loyalty Day is set aside as a special day for the reaffirmation of loyalty, for the recognition of heritage of American freedom, for calling upon officials of the government to display the American flag on all government buildings, and for inviting all people to observe Loyalty Day in schools and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies and,

Whereas, the Veterans of Foreign Wars have in recent years won ten consecutive Freedom Foundation Awards for its untiring and diligent Loyalty Day and similar Americanism programs seeking to rid this country of all Communist and other un-American groups and philosophies,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Delbert E. Lowes, Mayor of the City of Canyon, do hereby proclaim and designate May 1, 1963, as and respectfully ask the entire citizenry of this community to render a special tribute to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and wish it God speed in all its future endeavors.

Signed this 22nd day of April, 1963.

Hilltop Views

A few days ago my friend George Schaeffer—he of the incisive mind and pungent pen—was asking me something about James Stephen Hogg, the first native Texan to become Governor of this state. Friend Schaeffer wanted specifically to know what gave Governor Hogg such a deep and abiding place in the minds and hearts of Texas people.

Although I answered the question quickly I have deliberated it considerably since it was asked. I have once before related in this column my own reaction when first I heard him speak, 1890. It seems to me now that the things that most impressed this coming 14 year old lad then was his long linen duster and his 325 lb. corpus. I had seen my first elephant only a year or so before that and I figured the two were about the same size.

Hogg's campaign for Governor that year revolved around economic problems and monopoly power, with special attention to railroads and their control. These young giants had been vastly endowed by the state with free lands and were staging a tremendous expansion program. The Santa Fe, the Fort Worth and Denver, the Texas and Pacific, The Southern Pacific, the M. K. & T., and others were penetrating almost every section of the state and were exercising tremendous influence upon the course of politics and government.

In Hogg's first year as Governor (1891) the Texas Railroad Commission was created, a law establishing a maximum interest rate was passed, a law regulating the insurance of stocks and bonds was enacted, and other legislation that pointed toward the public welfare as opposed to special interests.

In 1892 opposition to Hogg was strong. His liberalism grossly offended the railroads and other big business interests. Unable to defeat Hogg's renomination, they split the Democratic party and nominated the very able attorney George Clark of Waco for Governor on a ticket of their own. The rising Populist Party, even more liberal than the Hogg Democrats, nominated T. L. Nugent. One of the hottest political campaigns in Texas history followed. The liberal Pops polled over 100,000 votes but Hogg beat Clark (also a Democrat) more than 50,000 votes and became Governor for two more years. Is it any wonder that history calls him "The Great Commoner?"

But answering further Friend Schaeffer's question as to what gave Governor Hogg an abiding place in the hearts of Texans it may be that his intensely human characteristics had as much to do with it as anything else. Born and reared in the piney woods and sandy lands of East Texas he understood well the mill-run Texan of the 19th century. He had strong convictions as to right and wrong and the courage to say what he believed.

He had, too, a fine sense of humor and enjoyed jokes, even on himself. He used to tell about going into a barber shop to get a shine. He decided he would have some fun out of the two (See HILLTOP, Page 3)

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In my role as counselor, I have had many opportunities to see the damage being done to our young people and to our society by the accelerated and artificial social development of boys and girls.

This acceleration in social development causes unnatural strain and stress with a high anxiety level. It forces youngsters into situations for which they are not prepared. Early, steady dating is one harmful result of the present practice. The early, steady dating leads to early marriages for which the young people are seldom prepared. An alarmingly high percentage of the early marriages are ending in divorce and many others create a family environment detrimental to all persons concerned. In addition to this serious aspect of the problem, there is the immorality that is increasingly evident.

There are many reasons why we should do better by our boys and girls. They could develop into a creditable generation of men and women if given the opportunity to grow up in a more favorable social climate. Who is to blame - the home, the church, the school? The facts prompt us to say that all of us must share the blame. The following new story may offer a partial solution, but more, much more than this type of action must be initiated. Here is the story.

HOUSTON (AP) - The Pasadena School Board, in an attempt to "slow down the rapid social development of children," has ordered an end to many social and athletic activities in intermediate schools, grades six through eight.

"We have been pushing our children toward adulthood too fast," said Supt. George Thompson. "Many students are burned out and have nothing to look forward to when they reach high school."

THE NEW RULES FORBID: Social activities that would require or encourage dating. Events requiring formal dress.

More than one picnic or field day a year, with the one event to be on campus.

Football games outside the district. There will be free admission to district games.

Football banquets. Visiting band events, except competition in interscholastic league.

School clubs in the sixth and seventh grades.

Election of kings, queens, duchesses and other popularity contests.

THE BOARD ORDERED: Encouragement of scholastic, citizenship and service programs.

Emphasis on science, mathematics, language and art clubs. An end to graduation ceremonies.

Cheerleaders, band twirlers and drum majorettes to wear more modest uniforms "befitting children of pre-high school age."

Less stress on showmanship and the "high competitive element," in club activities.

The policy takes effect in September.

The move follows formation of Parents League across the nation.

Wherever there are courageous people who care, there will be more of this type of action. Our young people are being more sinned against than sinning. Not all of the delinquency in our society is juvenile.

FROM THE CANYON RIM

We've been in the newspaper business for 17 years now. We are willing to concede that in the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love.

It's been our experience that older folks begin to thinking about fussing and fighting. We don't know why, but invariably spring gets folks at dagger points.

When we went down to Olton for our first command, almost a dozen years ago we found the community in a turmoil. The school board had just severed relations with a superintendent.

There had been a school board election close kinfolks to the one we've just had here. Every kind of rumor you could think of was being circulated.

Imagine our chagrin, after the relative calm of covering a police beat in Amarillo, when a fist fight broke out at the first school board meeting we covered.

One school board member smacked another school board member in the kisser with a fist we'll be willing to wager was as big as a Dog Patch Ham. It broke the old boy's jaw and he went howling to the hospital.

We'll never forget it. We just sat there too shocked to move, telling ourselves it didn't really happen. We remember turning to a lady of the community who was at the meeting representing an out-of-town newspaper.

"These country boys are a lot tougher than we had remembered them," was our only comment.

Well sir, the next spring the mayor and a member of the city council almost did a re-run on the school board incident.

It was in the spring after a new city council had taken over the reins of government on a write-in ticket, when the city auditor discovered a $5,000 shortage in the books, accrued during the previous administration. There was hail Columbia to pay, replete with grand juries and tearful supplication to keep the story out of the press and thereby keep it from the people. We've found that usually when someone wants to protect the community by keeping something out of the paper, it's himself he's interested in protecting.

Nothing much really came of it all except that the city got its money back.

It was just a few years later at the tenderest time of the calendar that the presiding mayor deemed his chief of police dilatory in his handling of the city's liquor traffic. The mayor (See FROM, Page 3)

"I like my electric heating because it holds the same even temperature—even at night," says Mrs. Q. L. Hames of Crosbyton. Mr. Hames, a retired contractor, converted his woodworking shop into a fine home of 900 square feet. He added storm doors and windows as well as insulation to bring his home up to modern standards installing electric heating at the same time. The Hames moved into their home in December of 1959 and the joy of electric comfort heating has been theirs every winter since then.

Across town or across the continent, there's no faster way to get from one place to another than by telephone. Just spin the dial and seconds later you're talking.

This almost "instant" communication is made possible by a continuous flow of service improvements.

Modern equipment automatically guides your call to its destination. If one voice pathway is busy, electronic equipment routes your call another way—in fractions of a second.

colored lads that promptly took over the job. He would play deaf. He asked, "What is the day of the week?" "Wednesday" came the reply. "Uh?" The Governor grunted. The shine boy shouted a little louder, "Wednesday!" After another repetition or two the boys decided the big man was deaf. One turned to the other and said in normal voice, "He is a fat old Devil, ain't he?"

Further illustrating his down-to-earth attitude toward people was his popularity with the University boys. When he retired from the Governor's office he opened a law office in Austin and continued his friendly relations with the University. I happen to remember one example of this. The Longhorns had won a football game over Southwestern University. That night 100 or more University boys conducted what they called a shirt-tail parade over most of Austin. (Really it was not quite that bad. It was a night-shirt parade.) About 2 o'clock in the morning, they marched singing and yelling, to Governor Hogg's home. When he promptly appeared in his long white night shirt bedlam broke loose, but the moment he began to speak the rousings ceased. After some five minutes of pep talk, following which another storm broke the quietude, the Governor yelled "Goodnight Fellows!" and returned to his room. It was then bed-time for the boys, too, and so ended a risqué celebration.

The oft repeated story that Governor Hogg had children named Ima, Ura, and Hesa needs correction. As I remember them their names were Will C., Ima, and Mike. There may have been another son, but if so I do not remember him. I sat in class with Miss Ima, who is the only surviving member of the family and who lives in Houston—one of that city's most highly respected citizens.

One more thing. Governor Hogg left a considerable estate. Under wise management through the years it has become one of Houston's major private fortunes and is used with a high sense of responsibility to the public. As an example, around 1930 Will C. Hogg gave to the Ex-Student Association of each of the State's institutions of higher learning a minimum sum of $25,000, to be used as student loan funds. Through the years the Hogg family has been one of the most philanthropic in this state.

accompanied the chief to the home of a suspect.

The chief didn't want to enter the suspect's home without a search warrant but the mayor rushed in where police chiefs feared to tread. Finding no booze, his honor hauled the suspect off to the pokey on a charge of vagrancy.

The only lawyer in town took the case of the accused—a Latin-American—and sued the city of Olton for a nice piece of pocket change totaling up to $100,000.

The ministerial alliance met and "got solidly behind the mayor." The police chief—who was right—was fired.

There was muttering along the sidewalks about "riding that lawyer out of town on a rail."

Then the season ripened. Cotton chopping time came along and folks began to busy themselves gathering in their commercial cucumber crop instead of coming to town to talk about the "deplorable situation."

The suspect got out of jail. The suit against the city was dropped and the lawyer and his wife began being asked to parties again.

Spring fever was safely passed for another year.

We've seen this peculiar "spring fever" so often that our situation here in Canyon is like the rerun of an old TV movie. Like we say, we've been at it 17 years now and have covered one to three board meetings of various types each week for the past several years.

We figure roughly that the board meetings we've covered during our newspaper career would be equivalent to covering Canyon's regular school board meetings for more than 150 years.

The turmoil will pass. We'll all be friends and most of us will be unable to remember exactly what it was all about.

We think it may all be summed up in this verse from the first chapter of Ecclesiastes:

"All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again."

Famed Sculptress Gives Two Models To Museum

Waldine Tauch, probably the nation's leading sculptress, has donated to the Panhandle Plains Museum the plaster models of two of her most famous statues, The Modern Texas Ranger 1960 and Pippa Passes, a characterization from Robert Browning's poem by the same name.

The Modern Texas Ranger is displayed in bronze at Love Field International Air Terminal in Dallas, Texas. Pippa Passes, also displayed in bronze, is on exhibit at the Armstrong-Browning Library at Baylor University in Waco, Texas.

The statues given to the museum are the original plaster models from which the bronze casts were made.

Of special interest to Texans, the statue of the Modern Texas Ranger was done under commission of a philanthropist in Dallas.

Miss Tauch did extensive research into the subject of the Texas Rangers to find out what they were really like in the early days of Texas and what they are like today.

Working in close cooperation with the Texas Department of Public Safety, the present day parent organization of the Texas Rangers, Miss Tauch sculpted the final interpretation of the famous lawmen.

The final result is a tall (over six feet) statue showing the Texas Ranger as a man of medium but firm build with a strong, weather-tightened face.

The Ranger's clothing is the rough but neat work cloth of a man who must be both indoors and out among people and away in the wilds.

From his medium brimmed Stetson hat to his straight, narrow tie with the traditional spurtie clasp and his two-pocketed shirt, the ranger as interpreted by Miss Tauch, fits most people's idea of what a Texas Ranger should look like.

There might be some question in Texans' minds as to the accurateness of the two guns the Ranger is wearing and the pants tucked into the boots, but these would only be passing questions.

Beside her outstanding interpretation of the world famous Texas Ranger, Miss Tauch is even more noted for her other works of the Southwest.

Perhaps the most famous, at least to Texans, is the Littlefield War Memorial Fountain, situated at the campus entrance to the University of Texas in Austin.

Better known as the fountain of the horses, the work is a huge arrangement of wildly prancing horses set at the rear of a semi-circular pool with characterizations astride the paws and rearing horses. This fountain and its horses are probably among the most photographed objects of art in Texas because of its location at the entrance to the university.

Other works of Miss Tauch include the Spirit of Sacrifice at the Alamo Shrine in San Antonio. This work commemorates the death of Texas of the heroes at the Alamo in 1836.

Geology Team Explores Vast Big Bend Country

BY JIM THOMAS

West Texas State University Geological Society has just returned from an extensive geological field trip to the vast geological wonderland of Big Bend National Park in South West Texas, according to Jerry Mullican, head of that group.

Mullican said the group left Canyon Wednesday noon of last week, headed for the Big Bend country with 14 interested geological students and professional geologists in the party. They traveled by car and pick-up truck.

Leaving in separate groups, the geologists assembled at the Big Bend town of Marathon where they camped at the Pena Colorado Park, a camping area provided near Marathon by Brewster County.

The group explored the geology of the region in several short side trips into the hills while they waited for the rest of the group to arrive from Canyon and Austin.

Jack Hughes, head of the geology department at WTU and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jackson, a registered geologist from Austin joined the group late Thursday. They all camped together that night at the Marathon park.

Friday morning the group broke camp and headed into Big Bend which is one of the largest and roughest National Parks in the nation. It is also the only National Park in Texas.

The geologists followed the park roads, looking at the geology along the way until they reached the Rio Grande Village, one of the main park camps in the heart of the Big Bend country and near the park basin headquarters.

Near the Rio Grande River, the camp is also close to the famous Boquillas Canyon which is some 1200 feet deep from the bed of the river to the first break in the cliff wall. The mountains of the area climb several thousands of feet above the high rim of the canyon.

Camping that night near the river and only a few hundred yards away from Old Mexico, the geologists refreshed themselves by swimming in the warm waters of the Rio Grande River.

They said they swam in the many deep holes in the rock of the river bed, some of them being too deep to find bottom. Park officials said the river was fed and warmed at this point by hot sulphur springs that flow up from the river bottom.

The geologists said they enjoyed their swim without any noticeable odor from the springs. Hughes said the river was lower than he had seen it in recent years.

Mullican said the group awoke Saturday morning from their bedrolls and broke camp, again heading out for the rough country. Following the trails, they headed for Boquillas Canyon and then crossed the river to explore the tiny Mexican town of Boquillas which was about a mile away from the river.

Some of the group waded the shallow Rio Grande at that point while some of the less energetic rented the "taxi", an old converted army truck, to ford the river with dry feet.

Exploring the canyon, the geologists came upon a huge sand dune, piled some 200 feet up the side of the canyon wall. It was theorized that a large notch in the nearby canyon wall caused wind blown sands to settle out at this point and form the out of place sand dune in the bottom of the deep canyon.

Saturday afternoon, the geologists left Boquillas Canyon and travelled across the park to the west until they reached the trading post village of La Jatis, where they ate their lunch.

La Jatis was the only place in the desert country west of the park where enough shade could be found to rest in, according to Mullican. The trading store owner had long ago planted several brush arbors to offer shade in the hot country to the patrons of his tiny store.

Leaving the trading post at La Jatis, the group followed the newly built state highway that follows the river all the way to Presidio, often called the hottest place in Texas.

Members of the group said it was the prettiest drive they had seen in Texas. The road follows the Rio Grande for dozens of miles, up one hill and down another, according to the group.

Getting near the far West Texas town of Presidio, the group spent some time looking over the Old Mexico town of Ojinaga and then went on to a place near Presidio where they camped for the night. Their campsite was near the mouth of Alamitos Creek, the creek of the little cottonwoods.

Breaking camp Sunday morning, the group headed to the north out of Presidio in the direction of home. Along the way, especially in the Davis Mountains, they looked over the geology of the area.

At Fort Davis, in the heart of the Davis Mountains, the group stopped to eat lunch. The altitude at Fort Davis is above 5300 feet.

In the afternoon the geologists traveled a side road up to the 8000 foot high McDonald Observatory where they had an unobstructed view of all the country they had been traveling through the past four days.

After looking over the high altitude observatory, the group traveled to Balmorhea State Park near Toyahvale at the base of the Davis Mountains. Balmorhea Springs, which flow 26,000,000 gallons of water per day, are the main feature of the park.

The group traveled together as far as the West Town of Pecos where they divided and went their individual ways. The group from West Texas State University headed for home canyon after five days and 1300 miles of the geology of West Texas.

Contests in American and World History will be held for high school students of the area today (Thursday) at West Texas State University.

The annual event sponsored by the History Department at the university is in its tenth year. "The contests have grown until we have to limit the number of entries," said Lowell Harrison, history professor at West Texas State. Students from 35 schools will be entered in the contests.

Sponsors will be honored with a "coffee" while the exams are in progress. The students will take an objective examination in each division and write an essay on a topic assigned at the contests. Teachers in the college history department will read the essays.

"Adobe Walls--1874" will be a paper read by Dr. Harrison at the noon luncheon. The history professor will read the paper which deals with the battle of Adobe Walls.

Janice Rector, president of the History Club at West Texas, will preside at the noon luncheon.

The Ex-Student Association will provide trophies for first and second place winners in each division. A certificate of merit will be awarded for 3rd, 4th, and 5th place in each contest. Winners will be announced at the luncheon.

Canyon High School students entered in the contests are Jody Sheets, Cindy Taylor, Jo Troth, Gayle Rea, Wam Moore, Ronnie Sweet, Carol Brown, Aline Stocker and Claiborn Crain.

Through a Home Rule Charter adopted in 1959, the City of Canyon operates under the Council-Manager form of municipal government. Members of the City Commission serve over-lapping two-year terms. The Commission meets on the second and fourth Monday nights of each month and the meetings are always open to the public.

Members of the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department formed a ten-man Emergency Unit in 1962. The unit is trained and equipped to handle special emergency situations. The Fire Department and City of Canyon jointly purchased the Emergency Unit-Chiefs car shown above. Other equipment added includes a portable resuscitator, a port-a-power unit, and first aid equipment.

During 1962 the downtown overhead water storage tank was completely cleaned and painted inside and out and lettered. The smaller overhead storage tank in the west side of Canyon was repainted in 1960.

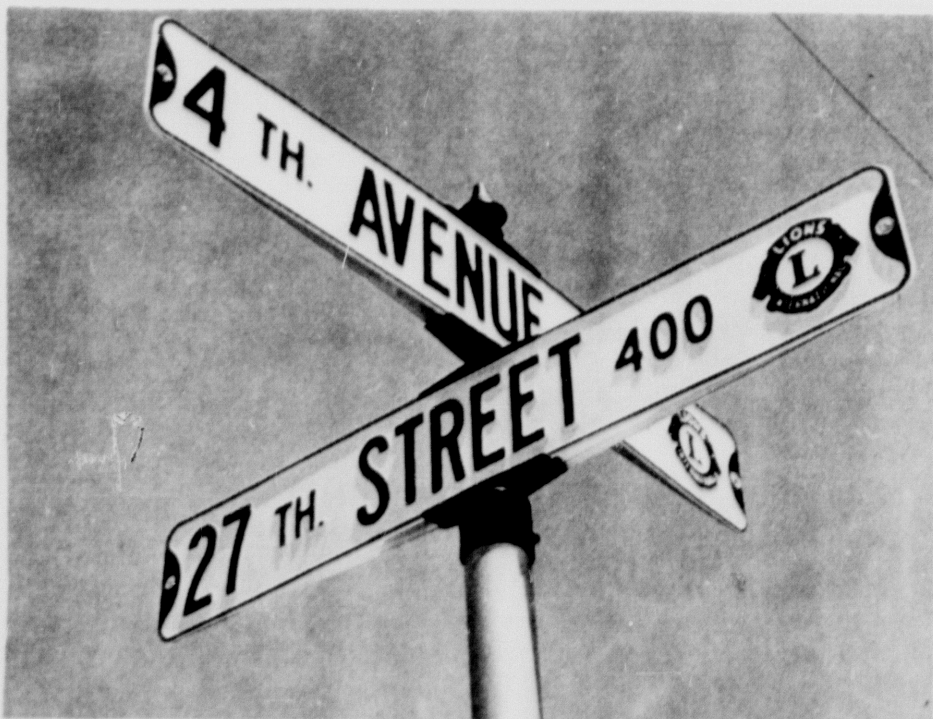

Public fallout shelters in Canyon have been officially designated and have been marked. The shelters are currently being stocked with necessary supplies to sustain life for a certain period of time. W. W. Sternberg is Executive Director of the Randall County Civil Defense organization which is jointly sponsored by Randall County and the City of Canyon. The program has been given state approval.

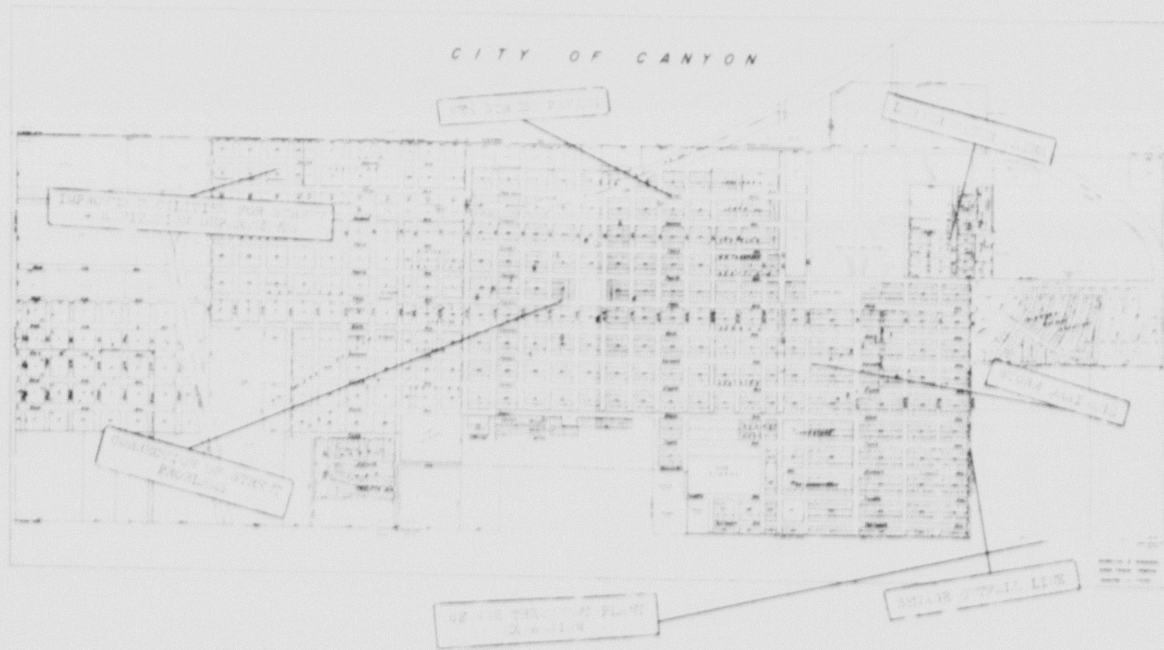

City Ordinance No. 249 requiring that dogs be licensed and vaccinated and be either penned or on a leash at all times became effective April 1st. Nearly 500 dogs were taken to the shelter in 1962.

1962 was a record year for new construction. One hundred and fifty permits were issued for a total of $4,005,694.00. Of this amount $1,140,609. was for taxable construction and $2,865,085. was for non-taxable construction. Seventy-seven permits were issued for new houses.

The Canyon Lions Club donated funds for marking 23rd Street from north to south city limits and 4th Avenue from 4th Street to 28th Street with attractive signs like the one shown above.

In October the City Commission appointed a seven member committee composed of Herschel Coffee, Clay Cooper, Dr. W. J. Wooten, Jr., Don Standley, C. J. Hughes, Joe Hooper, and Wilford Taylor, Jr. to assist the City Commission in planning for the capital improvement needs of Canyon. Certain capital needs were formulated to be considered over the next five years.

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 1962-1963

Fellow Citizens of Canyon:

The primary purpose of this pictorial report is to inform you of the major accomplishments in Canyon during the past fiscal year. Keeping steadfastly in mind that an informed public is the basis of good government, we have attempted through this report and other reports to keep you well informed.

As you are all aware, Canyon is one of the fastest growing cities in this area. All indications are that this rapid growth will continue. To help plan for this growth, Canyon is indeed fortunate in having citizens who will give their valuable time in working for the welfare of all. Special thanks and consideration should be extended to the members of the Capital Improvements Advisory Committee and to all the other members of the various boards and commissions who have worked so unselfishly. These individuals are typical of the spirit of our city.

We welcome and solicit your suggestions at all times. On behalf of the other members of your City Commission, we pledge our efforts toward building a greater Canyon.

Sincerely,

Delbert E. Lowes
Mayor

Some 33 blocks of new paving were constructed program was 9th Avenue connecting the high school and elementary school together.

Materials for stage two of the sewage treatment plant expansion program were purchased to be installed this spring or summer. This is one of the projects undertaken through budgeted funds to stay abreast of Canyon's rapid growth.

The fiscal year 1962-1963 closed with funds on hand in the amount of $147,375. This was nearly $6,500 more than was anticipated. Canyon's independent audit at the close of the fiscal year March 31, 1962, showed total assets as being $2,333,092. Liabilities as $1,001,415, and net worth as $1,331,677.

Teaching Is Lauded As Excellent Life's Work

BY LARRY ROBERTS

All young people must face, sooner or later, a most momentous decision--that of choosing a career.

The choice they make is important since it determines how they will spend the next thirty or forty years of their lives. It is only good sense, therefore, to prepare for a life's work in a field for which one is suited--a field one will enjoy.

The intelligent thing to do is to make an inventory of one's personal assets and limitations, then explore various professions. This is an invitation to teaching as a career.

Do you have what it takes? Teaching is an exacting profession. It requires top-notch ability, real scholarship, and long, careful preparation. Teaching is an exciting, challenging profession--and one that will offer you almost unlimited opportunities. A teaching career offers you friendly contacts with people who do important work, opportunity for advancement, interesting work, a sense of service to your fellow man, and an opportunity to continue to learn.

What does the teacher do? A teacher assists pupils in acquiring a command of fundamental knowledge plus wholesome attitudes and in developing fine citizenship as well as good habits of thinking and acting. He directs some after-school activities, keeps records, talks over pupils' problems with parents, and attends professional and civic meetings.

In the classroom, the average teacher spends 25 to 30 hours a week working directly with students; outside the classroom, he spends 15 to 20 hours a week in planning and preparing class work, evaluating student progress, attending meetings, and helping with student and community activities. The regular school year averages nine months or more--180 to 190 school days in many systems. A teacher can spend the summer traveling, taking university courses, or working at another job.

The teacher's work is extremely varied. Each student is different; each has his own needs, interests, and capacities. The teacher needs to understand child growth and development and to have a working knowledge of human nature in order to meet these individual needs. At the same time he must develop skills in directing group learning and activities.

Would you enjoy teaching? There is no simple answer to this question. The teacher must love to learn and must love to share this learning with others. Do you have the intellectual qualities necessary to be a teacher? If you really have what it takes to be a teacher, you should have little difficulty in answering "yes" to the following questions:

1. Do you like to work with people?
  2. Do you like to be with and to help people?
  3. Do you like to assume responsibility?
  4. Do you like to read and study?
  5. Do you have patience and an understanding of others?
  6. Do you have good physical and mental health?
  7. Do you possess above-average intelligence?
  8. Do you believe teaching is really important?
  9. Do you have a good sense of humor?
  10. Do you accept criticism and use it for personal improvement?
- Would you enjoy teaching? It all depends upon what kind of person you are and what you are looking for.

Thefts Continue

Randall County sheriff's office is investigating another series of burglary and auto parts thefts.

Dennis Vermeire of the Gerald Hotel in Canyon complained Thursday of last week to sheriff's deputies that someone had removed a clock radio and an electric shaver from his room at the hotel during the morning of April 18.

Joe Wise who lives north of Canyon, reported to the sheriff that a bench vise and a transit level were stolen from his farm shop sometime during the late evening of April 17. Wise offered to sheriff's deputies a description of a pick-up truck he thought might have been involved in the theft.

Garry Don Autry, a West Texas State University student from Plainview living at Gunter Hall on the WTU campus, told sheriff's deputies that someone had removed the receiving and sending unit of a tachometer from his 1962 Chevrolet which was parked at the rear of the dormitory. He said the theft happened sometime during the night of April 16.

New Notes From The RANDALL COUNTY FARM BUREAU

A letter has been received by R. B. Gist, Jr., from R. G. Garrett, Executive Director of Texas Animal Health Commission under date of April 15th acknowledging receipt of Randall County petition for Type II Brucellosis Control. We quote from this letter "A proclamation designating this County as a Type II Control Area will be issued as soon as the date for the hearing has been set. You will be advised of this date as soon as possible." The project undertaken has been completed on the local level. The efforts of those who helped get this petition signed and completed is appreciated by your Board of Directors. As more information is received from the State level it will be passed on to all of you.

The Annual Report of the Randall County Farm Bureau is being compiled for printing and mailing to the membership. This report will be put out in a new form this year. We hope the membership will look through this brochure, and advise the Directors concerning your attitude as to this type of brochure.

The Texas Employment Service has Paul Williams here at the Farm Bureau Office each Monday from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Activity has been slow in the request for agricultural help in this area. This Service has been coordinated by your Randall County Farm Bureau with the Texas Employment Commission and has been activated for your convenience. If you need agricultural employees, full time or part time, won't you please come by or call Paul Williams at this office on each Monday.

It is believed this will be most enlightening to all Farm Bureau Members. Policies by Farm Bureau affecting agriculture and allied interests are changed and amended each year at the State and National Conventions by the delegates. Your membership in Farm Bureau entitles you to commit yourself for approval or against approval of these policies which are made by your delegates.
